S.T.Age Objectives

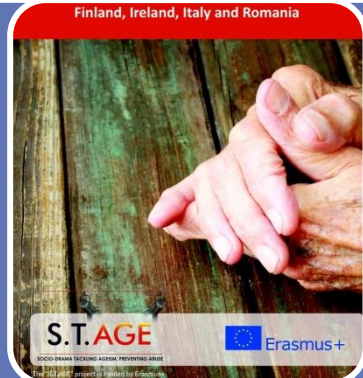

To design an educational programme that will provide new learning opportunities in the field of human rights and ageism to prevent elder abuse

To empower older people through human rights awareness education and the exploration of ways of safe-guarding well-being

To build capacity amongst formal carers to 'walk in the older person's shoes' and challenge ageism

To develop/input into the elder abuse policy of care settings

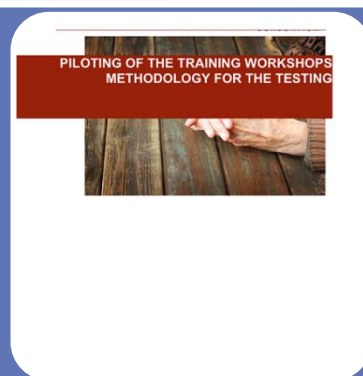

Intellectual Outputs

E Book – Elder abuse – Context and Theory

'Respect to Prevent' Education and Training Handbook

Report on the Piloting Of the Programme

Learning Platform

The E-Book

Reflects the background of elder abuse from the perspective of participating countries

Reviews theories underpinning understandings of elder abuse

Outlines the rationale for adopting a generational intelligence theoretical approach and socio-drama methods to the design of The Respect to Prevent education and training programme

Respect to Prevent Programme

Tell Me About the Programme

- Meet with management, staff and older people to provide information .
- Seek commitment to act on learning e.g. review elder abuse policy

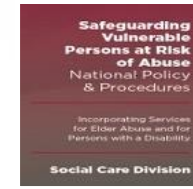

Transformative Workshop for Caregivers

- Explore attitudes to ageing
- Build generational intelligence
- Enhance self-care

Transformative Workshop for Older People

- Explore attitudes to ageing and experiences of ageism
- Increase awareness of human rights
- Enhance well-being

Let's Act: Putting Learning into Practice

- Bring learning from the workshops to management
- Review learning
- Use learning to inform policy and practices
